The two-day training on 'Entrepreneurship Development' organised by ICA Nepal, a social organisation, has been completed in the capital.

Dr. V.K. Arora a senior management associate from Management Associates Private Limited, India, facilitated the training that focused on building confidence of the participants for starting up a business venture. The goal of the training was stimulating business senses in the participants.

The training aimed to make the participants aware with regard to the corporate world and how to succeed, Dr. Tatwa Prasad Timsina, chairman of ICA, told The Rising Nepal.

A total of 27 people from different walks of life attended. Training followed the model developed by the trainer himself which was based on the process of starting an enterprise, to maintaining the growth, and then leading an enterprise successfully.

The central point of the training was to develop the entrepreneurial qualities in the participants. The training has been proven to be effective among management students of various well known universities across India. Similar training can prove to add to the skills and qualifications of management students and aspiring entrepreneurs in Nepal, Dr. Arora said.
